Chamber announces new image

By KARI H. BERG
T-R Staff Writer

The Marshalltown Area Chamber of Commerce is putting out a fresh new look with a recently redesigned logo.

The new logo, which features the skyline of the Marshall County Courthouse with the words "The Chamber" nestled underneath, will grace the Chamber's brochures, information and soon-to-be released new website.

"The look of our new logo does a couple of things very well," said Chamber President Ken Anderson. "It pulls the strongest feature of our old logo, the Courthouse, into our new look and viewers will notice the courthouse prominently in our website as well. It also simplifies our name from the Marshalltown Area Chamber of Commerce to 'the Chamber - Marshalltown, Iowa.' Most people refer to us as "the Chamber" anyway."

Anderson said Carol Berg

designed both the new logo and the former Chamber logo.

"The Chamber's logo and graphic image has been the same since probably the late 1980's," he said. "The CVB and MEDIC have both undergone a make-over of their look and it was time for the Chamber to do the same."

Chamber Vice President Amy Pieper said she agrees that the Chamber logo was overdue for a make-over.

"The other logo was over 20 years old," she said. "It was just black and white and while we tried to add color, it was just too difficult. The old logo came to represent Marshalltown as a whole. This new one emphasizes the Chamber while still keeping a sense of the other."

Pieper said the new logo also coordinates with other area organizations.

"It ties in with MEDIC with the blue and the gold and there are things reminiscent of the Conventions and Visitor's Bureau," she said. "That way, when we work with other publications, we look coordinated and like a family."

The logo change will be officially unveiled at the June 29th Chamber Annual meeting.

"I think a fresh new graphic look always adds energy to our materials and message," Anderson said.

TIMES-REPUBLICAN

Is it possible to create 300 new jobs in the Marshalltown area and add $20 million to the local economy without anyone spending an additional dime?

It is if everyone follows the advice of a new initiative coming from the Marshalltown Area Chamber of Commerce Executive Committee. That new program, called Target Five, will be unveiled in detail several months from now.

"We commissioned a professor at Iowa State who did a fairly extensive analysis of the buying habits of both commercial and residential customers. From that survey, we have launched a new campaign that will go public in September," said Bill Thiede, chairman elect. "The goal is to have people aware that if they were to shift their existing purchasing just 5 percent back to the local community the impact of that will be the creation of 300 new jobs in Marshalltown and over $20 million into the local economy.

"Though the goal of Target Five is for everyone to redirect 5 percent of their expenditures into the local economy, Thiede said the economic development predicted will only come to fruition if the larger companies buy into the initiative.

"We are not asking people to spend more money, just direct some of their existing dollars spent outside the community back into the community," he added.

To make this initiative a success, Jeff Vance, chair of the chamber's executive committee, said an educational aspect is key.

"It's got to be of value to businesses to spend their money here," he said. "We're optimistic we can work with local suppliers and get businesses as much value as they could get by going out of town."

Another major goal will be the continued outreach to the businesses in town which have Hispanic ownership. According to Alyce Quastad, also a member of the executive committee, some work has

Chamber Annual Meeting

The Marshalltown Area Chamber of Commerce invites its members to the 108th annual meeting June 29 at the Elmwood Country Club.

The Chamber, along with the Marshall Economic Development Impact Committee and the Marshalltown Convention & Visitors Bureau, will take the opportunity to report their accomplishments and lay out plans for the coming year.

The event begins with appetizers and a social hour from 6 to 7 p.m. with the program to follow, which will include the changing of leadership and recognition for the contributions of volunteers who are retiring from their posts.

The program will also feature keynote speaker O. Kay Henderson, co-founder and news director of Radio Iowa.

Henderson has been actively following Gov. Tom Vilsack's ambitions to become a presidential candidate, including going with him on a recent tour of New Hampshire.

"She's been involved in events in Iowa since the founding of Radio Iowa," said Ken Anderson, Chamber director. "Her insight into the politics of Iowa could be fun."

The cost for the meeting is $15 per person, and members are encouraged to RSVP by calling the Chamber at 641-753-6645.

BUSINESS AFTER HOURS

Central Iowa Fair Time 2006

“Feel Like A Kid Again” will be the theme of this year’s Central Iowa Fair. After the 100th celebration of the Fair in 2005, it would be a priority for fair organizers to start the second hundred years in a way that fair goers would not forget. For the first time in over thirty plus years the Central Iowa Fair will play host to a full Mid-Way Carnival.

“We were very lucky to be able to add Candyland Amusements to our Fair,” commented Fair Manager Denny Grabenbauer. “Many people have made the comment that they quit coming to the fair because of not having a mid-way, well now we have a first class Carnival coming to our fair, and we are expecting a lot of interest and turn out during this years fair.

Also returning to this years Fair is the opening of the Activity Building as a Vendor Showcase. This is attracting many business, crafters, arts and culture, anyone and everyone who has something to show, now will have a place to display their goods at the County Fair, just like the good ole days. You add the commercial exhibits with our Open Class in the Exhibit Building and you definitely have something for everyone.

Sun., July 9th, will be the Central Iowa Fair Queen Contest at the Marshall Town Center.

Mon., July 10th, 4-H programs will begin in the inside and out side arenas.

Tues., night, July 11th will be the start of the Carnival as the Mid-Way will open, along with Horse shows in the out side arena and Stock Car racing in the grandstand. With everything going on, it should make for an exciting kick off for the fair.

On Wed., night, the evening will get kicked off with the Chamber Business After Hours from 5-7pm. Followed by the crowning of this year’s Central Iowa Fair Queen. Last year’s Fair Queen, Jenna Goecke will be on hand to crown the new Queen who will begin her year as Central Iowa Fair Queen. Free stage entertainment on Wed. night will include the Lincoln Highway band and Hypnotist Ray Thompson. To conclude Wed. night’s list of entertainment, a giant fireworks display will be set off. “This was such a hit last year, that now we feel cont. on page 16

MCVB Salutes Award-Winning Volunteers

Shirley and Merrill Price

Merrill Price, along with CLEANIAC & the Marshalltown Betterment Task Force of Marshalltown, were recently honored with a Governor's Volunteer Award in Des Moines. Governor Vilsack awarded volunteers for their assistance in making Marshalltown the Cleanest City in Iowa. The Governor's Volunteer Award program was established in 1982 by the Governor's Office for volunteerism to honor and recognize the commitment, service and time that hundreds of volunteers contribute each year to Iowa's state agencies and partnering organizations.

Merrill and wife Shirley show their spirit of volunteerism as strong supporters of the MCVB. Merrill and Shirley are regularly called in to assist with special projects, such as preparing packets for conventions and tournaments, delivering Visitor Guides to area businesses, and making presentations to event planners. The Board and staff of the MCVB appreciate the efforts of all Marshalltown area volunteers.

"We are working with Max Cardenas in trying to assimilate the Hispanic businesses into the chamber," she said. "They are a very large population of businesses and we would like to tap into and supply the same information to them as we would our traditional businesses."

The effort of the Hispanic population to start new businesses in town has been impressive, Quastad said.

Vance also noted the contributions Hispanic-owned businesses have to the local economy.

"We want to encourage and support Hispanic businesses to affiliate with the chamber," he said. "They are an economic force here in town."

Quastad also mentioned it is important for the executive committee to let the community know what the chamber has accomplished and what its future goals area.

"We want to be accountable," Quastad added.

Vance noted that the chamber has placed more of an emphasis on its partnerships with the Marshall Economic Development Impact Committee and the MCVB Bureau. It will also continue its involvement in matters of state politics on behalf of business interests.

Overall, Vance said the goal of the executive committee, and the chamber, is very clear.

"We want to provide a quality service for all of our members. I'm not sure people realize that even in a community as small as Marshalltown, we have more than 400 chamber members," he said. "That's pretty impressive for a community this size. We're obligated to make sure they get their money's worth as a member of the chamber."

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

LOIS announces new improvements

Marshall Economic Development Impact Committee's (MEDIC) web site, www.marshalldevelopment.com, is linked to the LocationOne Information System (LOIS). LOIS is a state-of-the-art on-line site selection application that is currently utilized by more than 6,500 communities in 12 states.

LOIS is a unique platform that allows MEDIC to publish building, site, interactive maps (GIS) and community information on their web site, as well as share that information in "real time" with their economic development allies such as Alliant Energy and the Iowa Department of Economic Development. As an added benefit, MEDIC's information is displayed on the Internet at LocationOne.com, which is targeted to site selection consultants nationwide.

Site selection consultants have identified the data fields in LOIS as those critical to the site selection process as census and aerial). These maps are interactive and can provide customized views for a radius from .5 mile to 50

GIS component.

The information found on LOIS is downloadable in Adobe PDF (Quick Reference Flyer), HRML (Printable Flyer) as well as in customizable Microsoft Excel spreadsheet.

Recent LOIS enhancements allows visitors to the web site to create their own property list and either print or download multiple records into one Adobe PDF or Microsoft Excel file.

As LOIS continues to evolve, MEDIC can continue to offer the most up-to-date information and technology on its Web site and share that information with its economic development partners.

they analyze communities. Recently, LOIS has added an integrated GIS component. This useful tool provides five mapping modules (street level, topographic, flood plain, miles. In addition, a demographic report highlighting valuable census-based information for those same areas is available through the LOIS
